I am currently looking for ALM & LM roles, depending on the size of the production. I have worked in the Locations department supporting a broad range of productions for over thirteen years, including just over six years at Emmerdale. The role of Unit Manager did not exist at Emmerdale prior to my engagement and in line with my experience, elements of both Location / Production Management have become integral to the position. In reality, my current job is far more involved than its namesake. I often cover the Location Manager for prolonged periods and comfortably take on additional responsibilities and routinely take the lead on the more ambitious endeavors. While I continue to enjoy my job and take pride in my work, my experience outstrips the demands of the role, which has been intentional while raising a young family. The more significant challenges in my career, which I relished at the time, came from Unit Managing HETV Period Dramas. Now my children are a touch older, I am once again receptive to new opportunities and now is the right time for me to realize my full potential and effectively pick up where I left off, ready to step up as a freelancer.
