Hamamatsu

As part of its initiative to push the boundaries of sound design, the City of Hamamatsu—which is a UNESCO City of Music—has partnered with Yuri Suzuki to create the Global Sequencer.

The Global Sequencer represents a new way of creating personal connections with people from all over the world. Users are able to record their own sounds and upload them to the globe for others to listen to. These sounds then make up the core library for the sequencer, and are used to create intricate rhythms and global patterns.
