PERSONAL SUMMARY

I am an aspiring creative with a passion for film, theatre, and journalism. I recently received a degree in English Language and Literature from the University of Oxford, and have been involved in a range of creative endeavours throughout my degree and beyond.

I have extensive experience as a Production Assistant both within and outside of university, having worked on various independent film sets. I have been involved in multiple student drama and film productions across a range of roles, from assistant directing and costume design in theatre to production design and marketing in film. Additionally, my freelance writing experience spans magazines and publications including The Black Ballad, Labaatan Zine, and The Isis. At Oxford, I was co-President of Mansfield Film Society, hosting weekly film screenings and creating graphics to advertise them on social media.

I recently completed a Programme Assistant internship at San Mei Gallery which has provided me with invaluable marketing and communications experience. I am now looking to further develop my experience in creative world, whilst pursuing roles in television and film to kickstart my creative career.
