I am an Award nominated writer and recent graduate in Film Production from the University of Lincoln, and I have a passion for filmmaking and Tv. I have directed, written, shot and edited several short films, both for my course and in my own personal time. I have worked as Student Video Producer for over a year at the University of Lincoln's official social media channel, 'Student Life' before being promoted to Student Content Creator, a position I held until the end of my degree course. In this role, I was both on and off camera: presenting, editing and curating schedules for the University and making promotional videos for multiple local businesses. My experiences as a filmmaker and content creator allow me to have an excellent understanding of on-set etiquette and professionalism in the workplace. These work positions have enabled me to develop leadership capabilities, as well as organisational and improvisational skills. I am a hard-working and enthusiastic leader and member of any team.
