Hobbies and Interests

I have a love for all forms of storytelling, whether it be TV shows, films, video games, poetry or prose, and am currently working on several scripts of my own.

I am very passionate about music, analysing my own listening statistics and cataloguing the data of my favourite songs and artists. I also enjoy writing album reviews and will often incorporate these into my radio show.

I would love to enter the professional world of creative writing, as I have engaged with and enjoyed stories throughout my life. Good narratives and characters can be instantly recognisable and infinitely inventive, and should form a strong relationship with the target audience, and this is something I want to achieve in my own work.
