

To whom it may concern,

As a graduate in film production with a Masters in Cinematography I am keen to be considered for any trainee production/runner/assistant/support roles that you may have available in your company.

I have hands-on practical experience through university and working on a number of films and productions as listed in my CV. From this experience I have developed a passion for film making, TV and video production especially in terms of conveying a message and using an original and dynamic language to tell a story.

As a hard-working and tenacious individual, I have proven ability as a team player who is a creative thinker and doer, excited by new challenges and happy to perform any task necessary to make a positive contribution to the smooth running of a production unit, studio, location or set.

In addition to these personal skills, I can offer you thorough knowledge of a range of relevant hardware and software packages which I have demonstrated through my studies and the making of my own films whilst at university. I have practical experience across lighting, sound recording, editing software and as a camera technician.

As examples I have worked as lighting director on a small budget feature on which shooting was 12 - 18 hours a day for 6 days a week. I also assisted in the production of a TV commercial where I was responsible for supporting the crew on the rapid set-up and wrap-up of a large hired studio location and acting as a general aid to all guests and crew.

I appreciate this is a very competitive area to break into, and that you may not have any current openings. If this is the case, then I would still really appreciate a few minutes of your time with the chance to speak with you in person about my skills and ambitions and any advice or guidance that you could offer me in securing my first job in your industry.

Yours sincerely
